Healthcare – an exciting investment opportunity

Specialist skills key to success

Healthcare is a complex sector characterized by high, sustainable growth. The industry is driven by the huge, unsatisfied medical needs, demographic shifts in both developed and emerging markets, and the accelerating rate of innovation and new scientific discoveries.

The companies in the sector are benefiting from high barriers to entry, pricing power, patent protection, and an increasingly benign political and regulatory environment.

The reasons for investing in the sector are many. In order to take full advantage of its potential, however, specialist skills and deep insight into today's research frontier is required.
