7. Methodologies

UN Global Compact

An investee company will be considered non-compliant with the 10 principles of the UN Global Compact if it is determined to be causing or contributing to severe or systematic violations of the UN Global Compact principles and related international norms.

The evaluation is based on the Global Standards Screening performed by Sustainalytics. The screening results in one of the three following statuses: Non-compliant, Watchlist or Compliant.

The Global Standards Screening analyses norms and standards that are enshrined in the UN Global Compact, the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises, and the United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights, as well as their underlying conventions and treaties.

When making this evaluation the Investment Manager of the Strategy will only take into account the investee company itself and its subsidiaries.

Generally, level of involvement is measured as the percentage of an investee company's revenue derived from the relevant activity either directly or indirectly through corporate ownership. The estimation of revenue is either based on data provided by the investee companies or data estimated by Sustainalytics.

If an investee company holds a majority stake, i.e. more than 50%, of another company that is considered directly involved in a relevant activity, the parent company is considered involved in the same category of involvement as the subsidiary. In these cases, the revenues of the involved subsidiary are attribute to the parent.

In the case of a minority stake, i.e. 10-50%, of another company that is considered directly involved in a relevant activity the revenues of the subsidiary are not attributed to the parent but instead the percentage of the ownership stake is captured in order to signal the level of control and influence present in the relationship.

Controversial weapons

Controversial weapons are defined as weapons that have a disproportionate and indiscriminate impact on civilian populations, sometimes even years after a conflict has ended. Some controversial weapons are illegal, as their production and use are prohibited by international legal instruments such as conventions or bans. Others are legal.

Controversial weapons include but are not restricted to anti-personnel mines, biological and chemical weapons, cluster weapons, depleted uranium munitions, white phosphorus munition and nuclear weapons.

Level of involvement in relation to controversial weapons is not based on information on revenues derived from the involvement. The involvement is binary – involved or not involved.

8. Data sources and processing

The environmental or social characteristics of the Strategy will primarily be attained using data supplied by the global ESG research provider Sustainalytics. The quality of the research provided by Sustainalytics is evaluated on an ongoing basis to ensure a high data quality.

The data supplied by Sustainalytics is received in a form where it can be used without further processing for determining whether an investee company is engaged in activities that exceed the limits of the sector exclusions or is non-compliant with the 10 principles of the UN Global Compact.

The data supplied by Sustainalytics will to a limited extent be estimated where no underlying data is available from the investee companies.

9. Limitations to methodologies and data

Sustainalytics generally update their company specific data annually based on annual reporting by the companies. Company specific data will therefore not always be fully updated.

In relation to IPO's and in other rare occasions an investee company will not be covered or fully covered by research from Sustainalytics or the quality of the data supplied by Sustainalytics will be of an insufficient quality. For these investee companies alternative internal and/or external research and data will be applied.

Limitations to the methodology and data are not expected to affect the attainment of the environmental or social characteristics promoted by the Strategy in any material way.

10. Due diligence

The investee companies are systematically screened and monitored prior to the initial investment and continuously during the holding period for violations of international conventions, norms and standards relating to ESG issues such as human rights, labour rights, the environment and business ethics. The due diligence is based on internal analysis, external research as well as screenings via Sustainalytics.

11. Engagement policies

Engagement is an integral part of the investment process. It is anchored directly with the portfolio management team responsible for the Strategy. Through engagement sustainable business conduct is encouraged.

The management of an investee company is engaged directly through meetings or collectively with other investors. This approach provides access to highly qualified specialists with a strong knowledge and a network that can be leveraged in the ongoing engagement with the investee companies on key issues, including ESG issues such as human rights, labour rights, and environmental issues.

The decision to engage an investee company in relation to a specific matter and the method of engagement is made based on a proportionality consideration of several factors, including the size of the shareholding in the investee company, the materiality of the matter, the reliability of the data, the possibility of effecting the behaviour of the investee company and the resources required to conduct the engagement.

All general meetings of investee companies are monitored and voting rights are exercised.
